Further Arrests in the Election Cases.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY TO KILL

Grand Jury Has Returned an Indictment, Said to Be Based Upon a Woman's Confession, Charging Bert Dickens With a Conspiracy to Put Judges Fortune and Blankenbaker and Prosecutor Roach Out of Way.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 11.—Charges of conspiracy to kill Special Judge Felix Blankenbaker, Special Prosecutor Joseph Roach and Charles M. Fortune, judge of the circuit court, and to dynamite their homes have been preferred in two counts of an indictment returned against Bert Dickens, a carpenter, by the grand jury. The arrest of Dickens followed a grand jury investigation into threats sent to Judge Blankenbaker and Prosecutor Roach through the mail and the attempt to assassinate Judge Blankenbaker early last Friday morning.

Another indictment was returned against John L. Cronin, councilman from the Sixth ward, in which Cronin is accused of perjury in a statement made March 7 to the grand jury. Cronin gave bond in the sum of $1,000. Dickens's bond was fixed at $25,000 and he was sent to jail, being unable to obtain bail.

Rumors are current that Dickens also was the man who fired three shots into Judge Blankenbaker's house early Friday morning and that Dickens also knows who wrote the threatening letter received by Judge Blankenbaker.

The indictment of Dickens is said to have followed a confession of a woman who has full knowledge of the plot or conspiracy in which Dickens is alleged to have entered; that the conspiracy involves a city official who has been indicted on several charges of election fraud, and that the bomb throwing and bomb planting scheme was formed with the full knowledge of this official.

PUBLIC WILL BE BARRED

Trial of Preacher to Be Held Behind Closed Doors.

Martinsville, Ind., March 11.—The Rev. John R. Ellis, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Bloomington, will be tried here before a commission consisting of seven church officials. The trial will be held behind closed doors, beginning tomorrow morning.

The charges against him will be based upon charges presented Feb. 25 by the official board of the first Presbyterian church of Bloomington, which accused the pastor of questionable conduct toward women of Bloomington. "Irregular conduct" while performing his ministerial duties, is the general charge. One specific charge is said to be the writing of a letter to a young woman asking for a clandestine meeting.

The officers of the Presbyterian church session will present the evidence. If the Rev. Mr. Ellis is found "guilty" by the commission the maximum punishment, removal from the Presbyterian church, may be administered. Its decision will be final, so far as the presbytery is concerned, but the minister has the right of appeal to the Indiana synod.

The chairman of the commission is the Rev. John S. Martin, pastor of the Irvington Presbyterian church.

SAYS HE WAS JUST IN FUN

How Adventurous Youth Explains B. and O. Hold-Up.

South Bend, Ind., March 11.—Fred Miller, age eighteen, who says his home is in New York, explained to Walter A. Funk, judge of the circuit court, that he was "just in fun" when he held up a Baltimore & Ohio freight train at Walkerton, St. Joseph county, two days ago. Miller faces a charge of robbery. He pleaded guilty. The boy stopped the train by uncoupling the air brakes, and then rifled the caboose at the point of a loaded revolver.

Doctor Facing Arson Charge.

Evansville, Ind., March 11.—The trial of Dr. William H. Gilbert, a prominent physician of southern Indiana, for arson, is in progress in the Vanderburg county circuit court here. When arranged he offered a plea of not guilty. It is charged that Dr. Gilbert hired two men who were brought from St. Louis to set fire to his old hospital building, which was partly destroyed May 2, 1913. There are about fifty witnesses, and it is expected the trial will last several days.

Hanged Himself in Barn.

Danville, Ind., March 11.—The body of Roy Woods, twenty-one years old, was found hanging in the barn on his farm, three miles southwest of Danville. He is believed to have ended his life because of ill health. He leaves a widow and three children.

The senate has confirmed the appointment of John J. Cleary to be postmaster at Terre Haute.

SENATOR OVERMAN

Head of Lobby Committee After Free Tolls Agents.

Washington, March 11.—Senator Overman, chairman of the lobby investigating committee, says that he intends to issue subpoenas for men who, it is alleged, are here trying to influence senators to vote against the repeal of the free tolls provision of the Panama act. "It is a fortunate circumstance that our committee is still in existence," said he.

SUFFRAGIST INFLECTS IRREPARABLE DAMAGE

Attacks $500,000 Painting With a Hatchet.

London, March 11.—Miss May Richardson, a militant suffragette, inflicted irreparable damage on the famous Velasquez picture known as the "Robeky Venus," which is hung in the National gallery. The picture was bought for $225,000 in 1906 and presented to the nation. Art experts have estimated its present market value at $500,000. The woman attacked the picture with a hatchet, making six or seven bad cuts across the canvas. She was arrested.

Miss Richardson is a notorious militant suffragette, who has been sentenced to several terms of imprisonment since the beginning of the woman's suffrage militant movement. After her arrest she said: "I tried to destroy the picture of the most beautiful woman in mythological history as a protest against the government for destroying Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who is the most beautiful character in modern history."

The police magistrate committed Miss Richardson for trial at the sessions and refused to grant bail.

Hawes Harrison Turner, secretary and keeper of the National gallery, told the magistrate that the selling price of the picture had been depreciated by the outrage as much as $75,000.

Mrs. Pankhurst Is in Again.

London, March 11.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst has been returned to Holloway jail to resume her sentence for conspiracy for which she was sentenced to three years at penal servitude, of which she has served about three weeks.

RAIL TURNS UNDER ENGINE

Pennsylvania Crack Train Wrecked Near Pierceton.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., March 11.—The Manhattan Limited on the Pennsylvania railroad was wrecked at Pierceton, thirty miles west of this city.

The wreck occurred where section men were putting in new rails and the train crew had orders to run slowly in passing that point. The train was running not to exceed ten miles an hour at the time. A new rail turned under the locomotive and every wheel of the eight cars in the train went down on the ties. About one hundred passengers were aboard. They were shaken up but unhurt.

Shot Himself in Head.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 11.—H. T. Yorke, age sixty-five, of Chicago, committed suicide in a rooming house here by shooting himself in the head.

The callosoma beetle, an imported natural enemy of the gypsy moth, is found to be multiplying very fast in the moth infested territory of Massachusetts and seems likely to do much toward keeping this pest in check. ### FURY BROKE LOOSE.

Tourists in Milan Thought It Meant Wholesale Assassination.

"There is something most refreshing to the colder northern races in the excitable and volatile Latins," said George Hamlin recently. "We had a delightful exhibition of this quality when we first reached Milan. We entered a cafe celebrated as much for the artists who frequent it as for its excellent cuisine and had barely given our order when our attention was attracted to a nearby table, where two diners were engaged in what was evidently a very serious discussion.

"Presently the voices grew louder and more passionate, and the two men looked positively violent as they half rose from their seats and glared at each other ferociously across the table. We became decidedly uneasy. Vendettas, stiletos and such Italian appurtenances are all picturesque enough in grand opera, but we did not care to have our dinner punctuated with deeds of carnage.

"In the meantime all the other diners had stopped eating and were gazing with interest toward the scene of altercation. Gradually they abandoned their dinners altogether and came over to take sides with the disputants. Even the waiters forsook their posts and attached themselves to one side or the other. 'Surely,' we thought anxiously, 'this quarrel must involve the honor of the whole nation.'

"By this time the din was fearful. A score or more of excited men were shouting at each other across the small table, brandishing furious fists in each other's faces and looking like blood shed and murder. Our soup cooled untasted before us; all appetite had vanished. We clung to our chairs, too terror stricken to flee for our lives, even though we felt a desperate conviction that a massacre was at hand and our minutes were numbered.

"Finally one of the crowd pounded on the table vigorously and yelled some noises which sounded like a pack of firecrackers exploding. There was an instant's silence, and then the whole lot of them, waiters and all, bolted out the front door.

"We breathed an immeasurable relief. At least the scene of slaughter was transferred and our skins were safe. Just then our waiter reluctantly returned, though he made it plain that his duty to us was a decided bore.

"Was it a feud, a vendetta? we asked, and can't the police stop them before they kill each other?"

"And the waiter replied in his own peculiar brand of English, 'It be once that they not agree which be the shortest road to La Scala, and so half they go one way and half they go the other to make it prove!'"—Argonaut.

Proof of their effectiveness in the testimony of this Seymour resident.

The czar of Russia has one of the most luxurious railway trains in the world. It is a veritable palace on wheels, replete with every comfort and luxury. But owing to the absence of railways it cannot be used in certain parts of the empire, and the czar has lately ordered some motorcars of exceptional dimensions for use in these districts. One car is for his personal use and the second for his suit, while the third is completely equipped as a kitchen, with an alcohol stove, hot water reservoir, ice storage accommodation, a silver service for a dozen people, a folding table and twelve chairs. The interior of the czar's personal car can be converted into a comfortable bedroom.

THE INCIDENT IS NOT DISTURBING

Recent "Invasion" of Mexico
Not Official.

WASHINGTON ADMITS RELIEF

Word From American Authorities on the Border Confirm the Statement That the Seizing of Vergara's Body on Mexican Soil Was the Act of the Dead Man's Friends and Not of Over Zealous Texas Rangers.

Washington, March 11.—The recovery of the body of Clemente Vergara, the American rancher slain by Mexicans, was regarded as having been removed from the realm of international incidents with the receipt of official dispatches showing that the bringing of the corpse out of Mexico was accomplished by Texans and Mexicans having no official status whatsoever.

Consul Garrett at Nuevo Laredo and Brigadier General Bliss, commanding the troops of the border, sent practically identical accounts of the affair, showing that no Texas rangers had crossed the international border to get Vergara's corpse. In view of these facts there is no longer any apprehension of further complications arising out of the incident, and it is not believed that the federal authorities will make it their business to investigate further as to the identity of the persons who crossed the river and got the body. It is now considered that internationally nothing has happened and it remains only to bring about the apprehension and punishment of those responsible for Vergara's death. This is the duty of the Mexican federal government, and it is not anticipated that President Huerta will attempt to make any issue of the manner in which the corpse was brought to the United States.

Secretary Bryan is informing Charge O'Shaughnessy of the reports regarding Vergara's body, together with the evidence showing that the ranchman was shot and hanged. These the charge d'affaires will lay before the Huerta government as proof that the man was killed on Mexican soil and renew his request for the apprehension and punishment of those responsible. It is expected Huerta will endeavor to meet these demands.

CARRANZA READY TO MOVE

Constitutionalist Leader Prepared For March to Juarez.

El Paso, March 11.—One thousand Sonora troops have left Agua Prieta on the long march to Juarez, according to messages received by Rafael Muzquiz, rebel consul here. This body forms the advance guard of the escort that will accompany Carranza to Juarez. Carranza himself will leave Agua Prieta today and should reach Juarez within five or six days. He will travel slowly, so as not to outdistance the troops, who are mounted. Another 1,000 soldiers will leave Agua Prieta with Carranza.

George C. Carothers, special representative of the state department has returned from Agua Prieta, where he held a conference with Carranza. Word was received in Juarez that Villa had issued orders of confiscation against the $5,000,000 estate of Manuel Comeros, a Spaniard accused of giving aid to the Huertalists.

Federal agents in El Paso say that federalists recently sent across the border west of El Paso under Rodrigo Quevedo and Joseph Orozco have twice defeated rebel bands. In the first battle the federalists claim to have killed nine rebels and wounded fourteen.

Advices received by rebel officials in Juarez from Mexico City say that the federal garrison at Pachuca, capital of the state of Hidalgo, has mutinied and joined the "Constitutionalist" cause. Hundreds of the laborers in the mines around Pachuca have quit work and are clamoring for arms to fight Huerta.

WIDOW'S PATIENT WAIT REWARDED

Court Sustains the Valuable
Goodwin Patent.

MILLIONS IN PHOTO FILMS

Decision of Court of Appeals Means That the Eastman Company Will Have to Account for All Films Made by It and That Mrs. Goodwin at Last Is in Reach of the Millions She Has Waited For.

New York, March 11.—A sweeping affirmation has been handed down by the United States court of appeals of the decision of Circuit Court Judge Hazel of Buffalo, sustaining the application and force of the so-called "Goodwin patent" to all the common types of films manufactured by the Eastman Kodak company. Unless it is possible for the Eastman Kodak company to carry the case up to the United States supreme court, which is a debatable matter, the decision of the court of appeals means that the Eastman company will have to account to the Anso company for all cartridge films, film packs and cinematograph films made by it in the last fifteen years. The amount of money involved is immense, and while no one knows how much it is, the president of the Anso company said when the lower court made the decision that the Eastman company would have to account to his company for from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000.

The Anso company controls the patent by virtue of controlling the Goodwin Film and Camera company, which owns the patent.

And so the widow of Hannibal Goodwin, the Episcopal minister, who invented the pliable film because of an ambition to be able to amuse and educate children by stereopticon views, is almost within reach of the millions which have been made out of the films. She is now eighty-six years old, in modest circumstances, and she lives with a daughter who is more than sixty years old, in a quiet little home in Newark, N. J. While the legal battle for millions has been fought around her head, Mrs. Goodwin has gone on quietly with her knitting, willing to be modestly pleased if she gets a great deal of money.

CHARGE OF DOUBLE MURDER

Now Rests Against Thomas Hardin at Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ind., March 11.—Mrs. Jennie Richardson, the second victim of Thomas Hardin, awaiting trial for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Jessie Hardin, whom he shot last Tuesday afternoon, is dead in the city hospital. At the time Hardin killed his wife he fired twice at his mother-in-law, Mrs. Richardson. One bullet passed through Mrs. Richardson's liver, lung and stomach. From this wound pneumonia developed in the right lung and resulted in her death.

Mrs. Richardson was about sixty years old, the widow of Joshua Richardson. On the afternoon of the murder Mrs. Richardson came into the room where her daughter and Hardin had been quarreling. Mrs. Richardson, in her statement to the coroner, said when the enraged husband of her daughter began firing he shot her down.

Hardin will stand trial for double murder. The defense will be based on a plea of insanity, which, it is said, followed his separation from his wife.

ARBITRATION VS. RIOTING.

Rioting, such as occurred at Mitchell Tuesday afternoon, is a poor method of settling labor disputes. Such outbreaks of violence only make both sides more obdurate and delay the final adjustment of the differences. When disorder reigns rights of life and property are forgotten. Thought for the best welfare of the community is supplanted by the mob spirit and lawlessness. How much better it would be to discuss the issue at bar in a serious, businesslike way, ascertain the true conditions and let both sides be governed accordingly.

The value and worth of the arbitration method is being realized more and more each day. The great labor organizations are using their influence to prevent riots which usually result in loss of life, serious injuries and costly destruction of property. Such methods are repugnant to civilization. They belong to the age when strength was power. A far more satisfactory method of settling disputes without the necessity of loss of life is now available. Besides being more humane it is in keeping with the principles of right and justice.

Through the boards of arbitration both sides of any question can be equally represented and the differences can be considered in a cool and deliberate manner and a satisfactory conclusion can be reached by sober minded men who are in a position to give their best thought to the issues. In this manner both sides are duly protected. A satisfactory compromise reached after a careful review and study of all the facts connected with the question is always better than a victory spotted with human blood.

The idea of arbitration is becoming so popular that it has been accepted as the best method of settling disputes between nations. It is the means towards the goal of universal peace. Patriotism which was once measured by service on the battlefield is now manifesting itself in the desire to protect life and the honor of the nation by the modern methods of arbitration.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Children and Sore Throats.
Don't trifle with your child's sore throat. It may be harmless, and it may be the center of infection from which diphtheria will spread through an entire neighborhood. Antitoxin is an almost absolute cure for diphtheria when given in time. It is likewise a proved preventive, acting in this regard like a temporary vaccination. With such an agent in the hands of medical science all that is needed is care and co-operation on the part of parents and teachers to wipe out the diphtheria scourge altogether.

The Public Is Quick To Learn

A traveling man, discussing a certain branded ware bade by a rival of his concern, said:

"It is really remarkable, but it is a fact that nine people out of ten who go into a store and pick up a piece of this ware ask if it is 's.'"

The name he mentioned was that of his own concern—one that has been made known by advertising for 100 years.

The advertising of his concern's ware has been backed up with unusual merit.

The ware is as good as it is well known.

Yet others are making ware which is probably as meritorious—but which the public is chary about buying. Purchasers have to be convinced of its merits.

Advertising has made the other ware the standard of its kind—the public has come to think of the trademark in connection with the article.

The Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York, wants to help general advertisers to use newspaper advertising to better advantage. Correspondence is solicited.

ARCH MURDERER IS AGAIN UNDER ARREST

This Time Mrs. Guinness Has Been Located In Canada.

Indianapolis, March 11.—A telegram received by L. R. Newgent and W. T. Quillin, Indianapolis attorneys, from Henry Vogt, an attorney of Neville, Saskatchewan, Canada, saying Mrs. Belle Guinness, the Laporte (Ind.) murderer, was in custody there, was followed up by a letter to substantiate Vogt's belief. Descriptions of Mrs. Guinness obtained from W. H. Warden, deputy prosecutor of Laporte county, had been sent to Vogt, who also had a photograph. He insists the woman held at Neville is Mrs. Guinness.

In his letter, written before the woman was locked up, Vogt said: "I have word that she intends to leave the 15th instant, but I would not like to let her get away. I am going after her mail now." He was advised to have the woman arrested, on the suggestion of the Laporte county deputy prosecutor. Steps are being taken to verify Vogt's story.

Newgent and Quillin have been working with Vogt five months on clues to Mrs. Guinness, every one of which led to Saskatchewan. The attorneys believe she has been planning to stake a claim in the province. Vogt formerly lived in Indianapolis. The general impression for a time following the crimes of Mrs. Guinness at Laporte was that she died in her burning home, but the dying confession of her convicted accomplice dispelled this theory.

Deadly Battle on Train.

Welch, W. Va., March 11.—R. L. Taylor, a deputy sheriff, is dead; A. D. Beavers, a former United States deputy marshal, is dying, and T. E. Hickey is seriously wounded as the result of a pistol battle on a Norfolk and Western train following a quarrel between Taylor and the Beavers brothers.

Story of the Bible in Films.

The biggest cinematograph feat yet is that of an Italian company, which is now at work upon "The Holy Bible From Genesis to Revelation." Many of the scenes will be filmed in Palestine. Six thousand people will take part in it. As a film of such length—30,000 feet—would occupy a long time in exhibition, the company have decided to divide it into fifteen parts of two reels each. The flood and the fall of Babylon are two of the proposed scenes.

A rival Italian concern has already issued a long picture entitled "The Bible," but it is a highly sensational drama, not religious.—London Globe.

Cold Coal A-plenty.

A geological survey of parts of Spitzbergen shows that there are immense deposits of superior coal in various places, and interested individuals and companies alike are planning to tap these resources and bring them upon the highway of international trade. ## PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

The Invalid's Room.

The invalid's room should be, without exception, the brightest and most cheerful room in the house. The custom of putting the invalid in a dark or small room in order to isolate him is a foolish one. It is essential that the patient, who must spend twenty-four hours a day in a room, should have as much light and air as possible. It is conceivable that a room, desirable because of its light and airiness, may be noisy, but noise is less of an evil than darkness or lack of fresh air. Ventilation is exceedingly important. Even in winter there is no reason why the windows should not be kept open if the patient is well covered and out of drafts. It is a mistaken idea, unfortunately deeply rooted, that colds and sore throats are the result of too much air.

Mrs. Wrاندall drew back and regarded the girl's set, unhappy face. There was a curious light in her eyes that escaped the other's notice—a light that would have puzzled her not a little.

"But you will tell me—everything—a little later," she said, strangely calm. "Not now, but—before many hours have passed. First of all, you must tell me who you are, where you live—everything except what happened in Burton's inn. I don't want to hear that at present—perhaps never. Yes, on second thoughts, I will say never! You are never to tell me just what happened up there, or just what led up to it. Do you understand? Never!"

The girl stared at her in amazement. "But I—I must tell some one," she cried vehemently. "I have a right to defend myself—"

"I am not asking you to defend yourself," said Mrs. Wrاندall shortly. Then, as if afraid to remain longer, she rushed from the room. In the doorway, she turned for an instant to say: "Do as I told you. Telephone, Dress as quickly as you can." She closed the door swiftly.

Standing in the center of the room, her hands clenched until the nails cut the flesh, she said over and over again to herself: "I don't want to know! I don't want to know!"

A few minutes later she was critically inspecting the young woman who came from the bedroom attired in a street dress that neither of them had ever donned before. The girl, looking fresher, prettier and even younger than when she had seen her last, was in no way abashed. She seemed to have accepted the garments and the situation in the same spirit of resignation and hope; as if she had decided to make the most of her slim chance to profit by these amazing circumstances.

They sat opposite each other at the little breakfast table.

"Please pour the coffee," said Mrs. Wrاندall. The waiter had left the room at her command. The girl's hand shook, but she complied without a word.

"Now you may tell me who you are and—but wait! You are not to say anything about what happened at the inn. Guard your words carefully. I am not asking for a confession. I do not care to know what happened there. It will make it easier for me to protect you. You may call it conscience. Keep your big secret to yourself. Not one word to me. Do you understand?"

"You mean that I am not to reveal, even to you, the causes which led up to—"

"Nothing—absolutely nothing," said Mrs. Wrاندall firmly.

"But I cannot permit you to judge me, to—well, you might say to acquit me—without hearing the story. It is so vital to me."

"I can judge you without hearing all of the—evidence, if that's what you mean. Simply answer the questions I shall ask, and nothing more. There are certain facts I must have from you if I am to shield you. You must tell me the truth. I take it you are an English girl. Where do you live? Who are your friends? Where is your family?"

The girl's face flushed for an instant and then grew pale again.

"I will tell you the truth," she said. "My name is Hetty Castleton. My father is Col. Braid Castleton of the British army. My mother is dead. She was Kitty Glynn, at one time a popular music hall performer in London. She was Irish. She died two years ago. My father was a gentleman. I do not say he is a gentleman, for his treatment of my mother relieves him from that distinction. He is in the far east, China, I think. I have not seen him in more than five years. He deserted my mother. That's all there is to that side of my story, I appeared in two or three of the musical pieces produced in London two seasons ago, in the chorus. I never got beyond that, for very good reasons. I was known as Hetty Glynn. Three weeks ago I started for New York, sailing from Liverpool. Previously I had served in the capacity of governess in the family of John Budlong, a brewer. They had a son, a young man of twenty. Two months ago I was dismissed. A California lady, Mrs. Holcombe, offered me a situation as governess to her two little girls soon afterward. I was to go to her home in San Francisco. She provided the money necessary for the voyage and for other expenses. She is still in Europe. I landed in New York a fortnight ago and, following her directions, presented myself at a certain bank—I have the name somewhere—where my railroad tickets were to be in readiness for me, with further instructions. They were to give me twenty-five pounds on the presentation of my letter from Mrs. Holcombe. They gave me the money and then handed me a cablegram from Mrs. Holcombe, notifying me that my services would not be required. There was no explanation. Just that.

"On the steamer I met—him. His deck chair was next to mine. I noticed that his name was Wrاندall—'C. Wrاندall' the card on the chair informed me. I—"

"You crossed on the steamer with him?" interrupted Mrs. Wrاندall quickly.

"Yes."

"Had—had you seen him before? In London?"

"Never. Well, we became acquainted, as people do. He—he was very handsome and agreeable." She paused for a moment to collect herself.

"Very handsome and agreeable," said the other slowly.

"We got to be very good friends. There were not many people on board, and apparently he knew none of them. It was too cold to stay on deck much of the time, and it was very rough. He had one of the splendid suites on the—"

"Pray omit unnecessary details. You landed and went—where?"

"He advised me to go to an hotel—I can't recall the name. It was rather an unpleasant place. Then I went to the bank, as I have stated. After that I did not know what to do. I was stunned, bewildered. I called him up on the telephone and—he asked me to meet him for dinner at a queer little cafe, far down town. We—"

"And you had no friends, no acquaintances here?"

"No. He suggested that I go into one of the musical shows, saying he thought he could arrange it with a manager who was a friend. Anything to tide me over, he said. But I would not consider it, not for an instant. I had had enough of the stage. I—I am really not fitted for it. Besides, I am qualified—well qualified—to be a governess—but that is neither here nor there. I had some money—perhaps forty pounds. I found lodgings with some people in Nineteenth street. He never came there to see me. I can see plainly now why he argued it would not be—well, he used the word 'wise.' But we went occasionally to dine together. We went about in a motor—a little red one. He—he told me he loved me. That was one night about a week ago. I—"

"I don't care to hear about it," cried the other. "No need of that. Spare me the silly side of the story."

"Silly, madam? In God's name, do you think it was silly to me? Why—why, I believed him! And, what is more, I believe that he did love me—even now I believe it."

"I have no doubt of it," said Mrs. Wrاندall calmly. "You are very pretty—and charming."

"I—I did not know that he had a wife until—well, until—" She could not go on.

"Night before last."

The girl shuddered. Mrs. Wrاندall turned her face away and waited.

"There is nothing more I can tell you, unless you permit me to tell all," the girl resumed after a moment of hesitation.

Mrs. Wrاندall arose.

"I have heard enough. This afternoon I will send my butler with you to the lodging house in Nineteenth street. He will attend to the removal of your personal effects to my home, and you will return with him. It will be testing fate, Miss Castleton, this visit to your former abiding place, but I have decided to give the law its chance. If you are suspected, a watch will be set over the house in which is quite unknown, you will run no risk in going there openly, nor will I be taking so great a chance as may appear in offering you a home, for the time being at least, as companion—or well, in years she might have said to herself if she had stopped to consider.

"Get up, my dear," she said gently. "I shall not ask you to die for me—if you do come back. I may be sending you to your death, as it is, but it is the chance we must take. A few hours will tell the tale. Now listen to what I am about to say—to propose. I offer you a home, I offer you friendship and I trust security from the peril that confronts you. I ask nothing in return, not even a word of gratitude. You may tell the people at your lodgings that I have engaged you as companion and that we are to sail for Europe in a week's time if possible. Now we must prepare to go to my own home. You will see to packing my—that is, our trunks—"

"Oh, it—it must be a dream!" cried Hetty Castleton, her eyes swimming. "I can't believe—" Suddenly she caught herself up, and tried to smile. "I don't see why you do this for me. I do not deserve—"

"You have done me a service," said Mrs. Wrاندall, her manner so peculiar that the girl again assumed the stare of perplexity and wonder that had been paramount since their meeting; as if she were on the verge of grasping a great truth.

"What can you mean?"

Sara laid her hands on the girl's shoulders and looked steadily into the puzzled eyes for a moment before speaking.

"My girl," she said, ever so gently, "I shall not ask what your life has been; I do not care. I shall not ask for references. You are alone in the world and you need a friend. I too am alone. If you will come to me I will do everything in my power to make you comfortable and—contented. Perhaps it will be impossible to make you happy, I promise faithfully to help you, to shield you, to repay you for the thing you have done for me. You could not have fallen into gentler hands than mine will prove to be. That much I swear to you on my soul, which is sacred. I bear you no ill-will. I have nothing to avenge."

Hetty drew back, completely mystified.

"Who are you?" she murmured, still staring.

"I am Challis Wrاندall's wife."

"The Greatest Kidney Remedy on Earth," Says a Grateful Woman.

I want to tell you how much good your Swamp-Root did me. About four years ago, I suffered from what the doctors called fistula and for two years of that time, I endured what no tongue can tell. I also had inflammation of the bladder and I tried doctor's medicines without receiving any help. Someone told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

After giving it a thorough trial, I received relief, so kept on using it and today am a strong and well woman. If I ever feel badly or out of sorts, I take Swamp-Root and it always straightens me out. I honestly believe that this medicine would cure all troubles you recommend it for and it is a pleasure for me to send my testimony and photograph to you. I think Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is one of the greatest medicines on earth.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

VEGETABLE ENTREMENTS.

DINNER MENU.
Brown Potato Soup.
Baked Striped Bass With Maitre d'Hotel Sauce.
Parisian Potatoes.
Baked Salsify.
Bavarian Cream.
Coffee.

SOME nice ways for cooking side dishes for the dinner table are the following:

Baked Salsify. Scrape and wash and cut in small pieces sufficient salsify and put it into a basin of cold water containing lemon juice or vinegar. Drain and plunge into boiling water with a little salt. Cook until tender. Make a white sauce.

Put the drained salsify and sauce on a buttered dish, sprinkle over with breadcrumbs and small bits of butter. Bake brown.

A Welsh Dainty.

Leek Souffles. Take one ounce each of flour, butter and ham, one pint white stock, a gill of milk and cream, six peppercorns, three whites of eggs, one-half pint well reduced leek puree, a pinch of paprika pepper and salt, souffle cases. Melt the butter, mix the flour with it and let it cook without coloring. Boil up the stock with the onion and peppercorns and let it reduce to half its original quantity, which would be a gill. Boil up milk and cream together, add to the roux and strain in the stock carefully; cut the ham into small pieces and add also. Stir the sauce well until it boils and let simmer until it is well reduced; rub through a fine sieve (take out the ham), add the leek puree, whisk the whites of eggs to a stiff froth and add to the mixture with the seasoning. When the former is sufficiently cool fill up three parts full some souffle cases and bake in a moderate oven.

A Delicious Dish.

Mashed Turnips a Gratin. Two pounds young turnips, one gill Bechamel sauce, one-half pint rich stock, salt, pepper and nutmeg, three ounces butter, one-quarter ounce flour, one medium sized onion and breadcrumbs.

Wash, peel and slice the turnips, put them into cold water with a little salt. Peel and blanch the onion, chop it finely, then cook for ten minutes in an ounce of butter; add the turnips, previously drained. Stir the whole over a slow fire for about fifteen minutes. Melt an ounce of butter, add the flour and cook a little without browning, moisten with the stock and let it boil up while stirring, cook for ten minutes. Now add the turnips to the thickened stock and let simmer for about half an hour. Pass all through a sieve, season to taste with a pinch of sugar, salt, pepper and nutmeg, arrange in a pile on a gratin dish, mask with white sauce, sprinkle with breadcrumbs and divide the remainder of the butter into little bits on the top. Bake and serve immediately.

A Great Catcher.

Big Em Gross was once the star catcher of the National league and perhaps the heaviest hitting catcher that ever donned a glove.

Em was a great catcher, a wonderful thrower and a grand hitter, but he had his weakness, and that was in catching foul flies. He tried for everything in sight, ran circles around the ball and sometimes speared it, but he never felt at ease when one of those tall twisting fouls went up.

He was watching in Providence one day when a Philadelphia batter poked up a fly that looked 500 feet high. There was a wind blowing, and the ball began to twist around in circles, with Em doing a merry-go-round under it. Finally, seeing that it was escaping, he made a desperate effort to turn quickly and fell flat on his back.

Instinctively he threw up his feet and hands to protect his face. The ball struck the sole of his shoe, then it bounded up into the air, and as it fell again Em reached out and caught it.

And next morning the Providence papers had the nerve to say he did it on purpose.—Chicago Tribune.

For Bright Eyes and Clear Nose

Remarkable Catarrh Cure That Gets Right into the Affected Parts and Stops Gatherings.

S. S. S. is a Wonder for the Eyes, Nose and Throat.

It is definitely known that catarrh can be cured by the simple process of inoculating the blood with antidotal remedies that stop inflammatory conditions throughout the mucous linings of all the organs of the body. This is done with the famous S. S. S. Sure Specific, or as it is widely known, S. S. S. It is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, through all the veins and arteries, and enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache and steadily improved nasal condition.

For special advice on any blood disease write to the Swift Specific Co., 223 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not delay to get a bottle of S. S. S. from your druggist. Always insist that you want S. S. S. and nothing else. Beware of all attempts to sell you a substitute.

GLACIERS OF THE ALPS.

Most of Them Appear to Be Melting and Retreating.

Some new measurements by the Swiss Alpine club confirm the continued recession of the Swiss glaciers. In spite of the bad weather of 1912 and in spite of the fact that some of the glaciers were protected by heavy snowfalls or have had hardly any sunshine, their liquefaction continues to proceed at an increasing rate.

The largest of the glaciers, L'Aletsch has retreated ten feet, following on nearly sixty feet in 1911, and rather more in 1910. The Rhine glacier has gone back thirty-four feet in addition to the seventy feet lost in the previous two years. An exception to the general rule appears at first to be furnished by the two glaciers of Grindelwald, which have come on since last year, but the advance does not compensate for the loss of the previous year, and since 1893 the two glaciers have lost nearly a quarter of a mile.

Their temporary advance is clearly attributable to the inclement weather of last year.

Nearly all the smaller glaciers, out of the fifty-two surveyed by the Alpine club, show some retreat, and the largest loss appears to be that of the Palu glacier, near Bernina, which is losing regularly seventy feet a year. Periods of recession of the Swiss glaciers have been noted before, and they have been followed by periods of advance, so that it has been suggested that the present instances are dependent merely on cycles of less rainy or snowy winters and that there is no permanent glacier loss.—London Post.

A soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

As a medicinal antiseptic for douches in treating catarrh, inflammation or ulceration of nose, throat, and that caused by feminine ills it has no equal. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women, which proves its superiority. Women who have been cured say it is "worth its weight in gold." ## Charming Innovations in Chic Suits

Real charm has been given the tailored suits this year.

All the severe, straight lines of the tailor-made have been brought into graceful curves, lines of drapery, and here and there a hint of shirring.

Bischof has idealized these mandates of Dame Fashion in the suits that are now on display at our store. Each is a picture in itself!

Fashion has introduced many new colors—it's surprising how much less trying they are than in previous years.

Lovely shades of Geranium, Apricot, Fox Glove and Oriole, dainty tints of Seville Blue, of Peridot and Eucalyptus Green will delight your eye.

Miracle-workers have been at the fabric looms, we are sure, so novel and decidedly lovely are the materials Bischof has used in his productions.

Don't be content to read about these models that are delighting more and more women every day. Let us show them to you today—have the best of the new things for your wardrobe.

THE FIRST GLIMPSE of SPRING MILLINERY STYLES is now to be had in our Millinery Department.

KELLEY'S ARMY IN A PECULIAR POSITION

Its Advance Shut Off In All Directions.

Sacramento, Cal., March 11.—In the unemployed situation here there is no change. The army of about 1,500 men is still camped just across the river from Sacramento. In the police court "General" Kelley and other leaders who were arrested pleaded not guilty of vagrancy and demanded jury trials. Their cases were set for Thursday. Sacramento is practically under martial law and all people on the street who are not known to the guards must give an account of themselves. A strong guard is posted at the two bridges to make sure the army doesn't get entrance to the state capital again.

The "army" occupies a peculiar position. With flood water in the Yolo basin shutting off a march to the south, west or north, they have but one direction to take, and that is eastward across the bridges into Sacramento. The "army" voted to march peacefully through the city on its way eastward if the police would permit, but the Sacramento authorities rejected the proposal.

Chairman Stitt of the Yolo supervisors and District Attorney Bailey of that county asked that the Sacramento guards be removed from the bridge and the army be allowed to cross. This request also was refused. The Yolo officials then threatened to start legal proceedings to enjoin Sacramento from guarding the bridge—and there the situation rests.

Caught at the Crossing.

Bourbon, Ind., March 11.—Fred Reichert's head was cut off and Gus Peterson was severely injured by a Pennsylvania train. Peterson saved himself by gripping the pilot as it struck him and was dragged two squares before the train stopped. The men were in a single buggy. The horse drawing the vehicle was not injured.

Fire Loss Estimates Revised.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 11.—Revised estimates of the losses suffered by merchants and professional men when a fire swept a big business block here were greatly in excess of earlier figures and it was said that the total damage would be between $330,000 and $335,000.

Baptist Missionary Society.

The Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. C. Carpenter, 212 St. Louis avenue. All the ladies of the church are cordially invited.

We do "Printing that Pleases."

Fate of a Fallen Queen.

When the French dethroned Queen Ranavalona of Madagascar she was given a small house in Algiers and a still smaller pension. Some little time ago she was permitted to visit Paris. No carriage or car was placed at her disposal. She was left without money to see the sights or go shopping, and she was not taken to theaters or social gatherings. Most of her time she passed in her room, looking out through the window at what was going on below. At last she was driven to apply to the authorities for passage back to Algiers, and there she has since remained, living in the most humble fashion imaginable. Yet the island over which she once ruled is larger than France itself.
